

1637

A close-up photograph of a stone archway. The arch is constructed from large, light-colored stone blocks. In the center of the arch is a green-painted wooden door with vertical planks. Above the door, the year '1637' is carved into the stone in a simple, blocky font. The surrounding wall is made of similar stone blocks, some with visible mortar joints.